Bring something to share ~ food, drink, song or story ~ or all of those things or just ye!

If ye must bring something else, because ye just can't help yourself (ye poor soul, ye) consider a nice bit of peat for the Lughnasa bonfire, or a bag of mulch, a perennial or two, or even a few flagstones. Home decor items may be exchanged for one of the many boxes of home decor in the garage that keep the horseless carriage out in the rain and the wind and the bird droppings.

For a look at the yard to be warmed, go to: www.wordandpicturecommunications.com. On the Photography page and you will see a link to new house pictures.

Getting here: From I-5, take Exit 118-Center Drive, DuPont. At the first traffic light at McNeil - turn left. Drive almost 2 miles to Hoffman Hill Blvd. and turn left. At the top of the hill, turn right on Brown. We are on the corner of Brown and Walker.

Lughnasa, pronounced LOO-na-sa, is an ancient Celtic festival celebrating the harvest season.
